Dorchester, Mass.—Dorchester teacher Rose Montgomery recently won the Grand Prize for “Koi Pond,” a stained glass mosaic, at an art exhibition at The Boston Home (TBH) in Dorchester. Rose teaches art at St. Brendan’s school.

Juried artwork from the more than 30 exhibitors was made available for sale during the exhibition, which attracted more than 300 people. Many of Rose’s students displayed artwork, many of which were sold. The Boston Home is a long-term care facility for adults with multiple sclerosis and other progressive neurological diseases.

“We were thrilled that Biogen-Idec, Inc. and Citizens Bank sponsored our second annual art exhibition. The residents of The Boston Home enjoy hosting groups from the community to celebrate the arts,” said Florence Rawls, events coordinator at The Boston Home.

She added, “We were very happy that more artists with MS were able to exhibit their art this year. This furthers our mission to reach beyond our doors and connect with people living with MS in the community.”

Founded in 1881, The Boston Home is a 96-bed, not-for-profit, long-term-care facility that serves adults of all ages with multiple sclerosis and other progressive neurological diseases. The only facility of its kind in New England and one of a few in the United States, The Boston Home has earned a national reputation for providing progressive long-term care.
