Dorchester Artist Wins Grand Prize At Art Exhibition at The Boston Home

Dorchester, Mass.—Dorchester resident Rosemary Taylor recently won the Grand Prize for her “untitled” painting at art exhibition at The Boston Home in Dorchester.

Juried artwork from the more than 30 exhibitors was made available for sale during the exhibition, which attracted more than 300 people. The Boston Home is a long-term care facility for adults with multiple sclerosis and other progressive neurological diseases.

“The artwork was breathtaking! The exhibition was also a wonderful opportunity to bring the community together around the arts,” said Florence Rawls, events coordinator at The Boston Home. “It was great to get better acquainted with our neighbors and to show off our recently expanded and renovated facility.”

“The art exhibition was the second in a series of celebrations to welcome the public into our home. It was a great opportunity for our residents to interact with members of the community,” said Marva Serotkin, CEO of The Boston Home.

Founded in 1881, The Boston Home is a 96-bed, not-for-profit, long-term-care facility that serves adults with multiple sclerosis and other progressive neurological diseases. The only facility of its kind in New England and one of a few in the United States, The Boston Home has earned a national reputation for providing progressive long-term care.
